TO THE OWNERS OF DOGS!

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Alexandria, Va., June 8, 1906.
All persons owning or intending to keep any animal of the species of Canine species should come forward on or before

JUNE TWENTY-FIFTH, 1906,
and take out a license for the same from the Auditor. After the 30th of June all persons owning or harboring dogs without the required license are subject to fine as the laws on the subject require of $3 or $5.

Complaint has been frequently made that many persons fail to take out their license, and that others pay on one or two dogs when owning and harboring more, or who send such dogs away during the summer months and bring them back in the fall.

Attention has been called to this evasion of the law, and police will report all such cases, and fines can be imposed upon those who fail to take out licenses after trial in the Police Court.

The police officers will be required to report all violations of this law.

In order to avoid any mistakes persons who make application for licenses would do well to write their names and number of residence, street, etc., on a card or paper when making application for their licenses to the Auditor.

FRED. J. PAFF, Mayor.

The following is a copy of Section 54 of the license law: "On every dog, regardless of sex, one dollar and fifty cents."

WOMEN'S NEGLECT SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

Miss Kate McDonald

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs, which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, or other female weakness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless headed a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

"I have been so much so much to me that I cannot keep from telling about it for the sake of other suffering women."

"For a long time I suffered untold agony with a female trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Alexandria Gazette.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 15, 1906.

Address.

In regard to andirons a writer in the Connors points out the curious fact that the older specimens rarely come in pairs, but are of different heights and sizes. It was the custom in the middle ages, it seems, to make them uneven so as to facilitate the moving and raising of the huge blocks employed for firewood. He continues:

In the middle ages they were also planned to hold a spit, and it was not until the late sixteenth century that they were much ornamented. According to Viollet le Duc, since the most remote ages, from Etruscan times down to the Romans, such andirons were made of iron.

Vasari speaks of andirons made with "meraviglioso

magistero" for the captains of the Arte della

Seta, but I have not found much ornamentation upon them as early as he says. I have a theory of my own, which is contrary to that of Viollet le Duc.

In England andirons are called fire dogs,

and in the Bargeho there is a splendid specimen made in the form of a crouching hound. I hold that the andirons were in the first instance made in the shape of animals lying at rest, shaped of clay or stone, and it was much later that they were made of iron, when they often ended in animal heads, most often in that of dogs.

Advertising a Novel.

In a New York literary club two novelists were discussing a novel of the eighties and of which 60,000 copies had been sold.

"It was," said the older man, "the best piece of advertising I ever heard of, for it was advertising a novel that made the book popular."

"The author has a millionaire bachelor friend—call him Millions—and he persuaded

Millions to let him write for a newspaper a paragraph to the effect that the novel's heroine

had a bit with him, and if he could find anywhere

a girl resembling her he would marry her."

"This paragraph duly appeared. It was copied all over the country. The young women of America, on fire with curiosity and hope, bought and read the book in order to see if they stood

any chance with Millions."

The younger novelist took out his notebook.

"By Jove," he muttered, "it wouldn't hurt to resurrect that scheme."

To Tan Fur Skins.

A formula often used to tan skins with hair or fur on is this: Wash the skin and scrape off any flesh that may be sticking to it.

Then wash the hair side with water and soap and rinse well. Take one pound each of salt and pulverized alum, two ounces of borax dissolved

in hot water, add enough rye meal (cornmeal) any answer as well) to make a thick paste and spread all over flesh side. Then fold lengthwise, with the hair side out. Let remain two weeks in an airy

but shaded place. Then unfold, shake well and wash

flesh side with water and scrape with some sort of dull scraper. Pull and stretch and work till dry.

The quantity of ingredients must be in the proportions given, but the size of the skin must determine the quantity used. The quantities named probably would be enough for two or three sheepskins.—St. Louis

Republic.

Currents.

Currents are really little grapes, quite without seeds, having thin skins and very sweet.

They have been known from very ancient times, for the name itself is a corruption of "Corinth," the Creek city where they were originally cultivated.

Vines produce no fruit for three years after planting, but in the fourth year there is a small crop, which increases up to the twelfth. Those grown in the island of Zante are most esteemed. Currents are simply dried in the sun on the ground and then packed for shipment.

In some parts of Greece they are also made into a sweet wine.

Norway in Scotland.

Few people are aware of the fact that the Orkney

and Shetland islands, strictly speaking, belong to the kingdom of Norway. Toward the close of the fifteenth century King Christian of Norway pledged the Orkneys and the Shetlands, over which his rule was undisputed, to King James III. of Scotland for the payment of the dowry

of his daughter Margaret, who became queen of Scotland.

The pledge has not yet been redeemed.

Begging.

A man on being accosted by a beggar said:

"Why don't you go to work? Why do you waste your time begging?" The beggar drew himself up.

"Did you ever beg?" he said.

"No, of course not," said the man.

"Then," said the beggar, "you don't know what work is."

Easy English.

"Ah, your language! Eet ess so difficult."

"What's the matter, count?"

"First, zis novel eet say ze man was unhorsed."

"Yes?"

"Ze it say he was cowed."

Marked.

"His attentions to you have been marked, have they not?"

said the young woman's experienced friend.

"Oh, yes. He has never taken the price ticket off any of his presents."

Freely.
